Israel To Reverse Trend To Cities

The Government officially unveiled a development plan envisaging Israel as a nation of 2,500,000, including 1,000,000 in the cities of Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and Haifa, 1,000,000 in the smaller cities in Galilee and the Negeb, and 500,000 in agriculture. The population is expected to reach 2,500,000 within five years, but the development program will lag behind.

The plan, disclosed at an exhibition in the Tel Aviv Museum, is designed to reverse the present population trend in which 75 per cent of Israel's 1,000,000 Jews live in the three major cities and 80 per cent of the Jewish population is concentrated in the coastal plain. The Government regards this distribution as disastrous for economic, security and political reasons.

Of Israel's three largest cities, the Government will encourage the expansion only of Jerusalem, which now has 100,000 Jewish inhabitants, and is envisaged as a city of 250,000. Ten Jewish villages and abandoned Arab towns in Galilee and the Negeb are being expanded to cities of 30,000 to

Was Known For Aid In Building State

Israel Mats, pioneer Zionist widely known for his philanthropies and his work in re-establishing Hebrew as a living language, died at his home, 1522 Albemarle Road, Brooklyn, N.Y., one day after his eighty-first birthday.

Mr. Mats, who had been ill for the last year, was born in Lithuania and came to the United States as a young man. After beginning his business career in New York [illegible] in the drug business, and in subsequent years operated a large wholesale business in drugs and chemicals. He founded Ex-Lax, Inc., of New York in 1906 and since then had served as its president.

Descended from a family of scholars, writers and rabbis, Mr. Mats displayed a long interest in communal and educational undertakings. Among those with whom he became associated during this work were Prof. Albert Einstein of Princeton University; Chaim Wei...

Jews Leave Iraq As Martial Law Ends

Dr. Robert S. Marcus, political director of the World Jewish Congress, appealed to the United Nations Economic and Social Council to take action regarding the plight of Jews in Iraq and other Moslem countries. Dr. Marcus declared that there had been "further deterioration in the position of Iraqi Jewry" since the Economic and Social Council had adopted a resolution last year that called on "Governments and authorities concerned" to safeguard the rights of individuals and groups in Palestine and neighboring countries.

"In some instances, notably in Lebanon, the position of the Jewish minorities, according to available reports, has shown considerable improvement," Dr. Marcus said in a letter to the Council. "In other regions, notably in Iraq, it would appear that their position has deteriorated still further."

He asked the Council to place the question on its agenda and to ascertain the effect of its previous resolution in the light of the United Nations Charter and the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which was adopted by the General Assembly in December, 1948.

At the same time, the New York Times writer, Albion Ross, now in Iran, reports that the spectacular stories of persecution circulated abroad do not appear to be well substantiated in Iraq itself. The sort of thing that went on in certain instances two years ago has largely disappeared, he says. The heavy traffic of Iraqi Jews now crossing the frontier can be explained by the lifting of martial law.

Under the martial law regime, the punishment for anyone leaving Iraq illegally was extremely severe. Since the lifting of martial law, however, Jews suspected of an intention to leave the country and [illegible] the frontier with no [illegible] are fined about [illegible] dinars. ($14). Those caught in the act are fined about 50 dinars. Recently a Jew made five escape attempts and was fined five times before he succeeded on the sixth attempt.

Then on the Iranian side of the frontier Jews leaving Iraq may have to pay a nominal fine for illegal entry and are then set free. A Jewish organization set up in Iran takes responsibility for those who come over the frontier. Many of them are directed to a large camp near Teheran.

Jews who come into Iran en route to Israel are not in the state

Sees Threat As Egypt Rearms

The Israeli Government has supplied data about Egyptian rearmament simultaneously to the State Department in Washington and to the United States Embassy in Tel Aviv. The data is designed to prove that the Egyptians are arming with aggressive intentions.

According to information supplied by the Israeli Foreign Ministry, the Egyptians are raising a fully armored division and have bought 100 jet planes, 10 centurion tanks and 260 Sherman tanks as well as "pocket" submarines and motor torpedo boats. These could hardly be described as needed for internal security, it is maintained in Israel.

The jet planes, heavy bombers and centurions have been bought from Britain, the Sherman tanks from Belgium and the submarines from Italy, according to Israeli Government sources, says the New York Times. The Egyptians also are said to have sought to buy arms factories in Belgium and Sweden.

The Egyptian military budget rose from £,800,000 pounds (about $16,320,000) in 1944 to £2,000,000 pounds in 1949. It comprised 8 per cent of the nation's budget in 1944 and 30 per cent in 1949, it was stated. These reports have alarmed Israeli Army leaders. Maj.-Gen. Yigael Yadin, Chief of Staff, has warned that the Government has to be prepared for a second round in view of Arab rearmament and the repeated threats of Arab political leaders.

Pay-As-You-Go Policy To Regulate Influx

Immigration into Israel will be reduced to 12,000 a month in 1950, compared with 20,000 a month last year, unless there is a substantial increase in gifts by American Jews to the United Jewish Appeal, Dr. Nahum Goldmann, chairman of the American section of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, said in New York at a press conference at the agency's offices, 16 East Sixty-sixth Street. Dr. Goldmann emphasized that any reduction in immigration did not represent a change in Israel's policy of admitting all Jews who wish to enter the country, but was a reflection of the financial inability of the Jewish Agency to finance immigration on the same scale as before.

Dr. Goldmann returned from Israel where he attended a three-week plenary session of the Jewish Agency Executive, at which it was decided to adopt a pay-as-you-go policy on immigration because of the Agency's increasing debt. The Agency gets most of its funds from the United Jewish Appeal and finances colonization and other projects as well as immigration.

The reduced immigration figure means that thousands of Jews anxious to get to Israel "will be left stranded" in North Africa and elsewhere unless they can find their own means of getting to Israel, says the New York Herald Tribune.

Instead of projecting long-range immigration policies, the Agency will decide how many immigrants to admit during each three-month period, with the decision based on funds in the Agency treasury. There are two major exceptions, however, to the financial limitation on immigration, both characterized as [illegible] limited time, and the Jews leave in that period if they are to leave at all in the foreseeable future. The other emergency is where the safety of Jews is endangered in any country by violent anti-Semitism.

"Every Jew who can find his way by his own means, or through help from friends or relatives, to any Israel port of entry, will continue to be admitted to the country," Dr. Goldmann said. "But that part of the immigration into Israel which is the responsibility of the Jewish Agency, this is, the immigrants who, having no means of their own, must rely on organization help will hereafter be restricted in numbers in accordance with the funds which are available to care for them."

WJC Pleads For Jews In Moslem Lands

"The cumulative effect of the events of the past two years has produced a situation for the Jews of certain Middle Eastern countries that is causing the gravest anxiety to Jewish communities throughout the world," said Dr. Maurice L. Perlzweig, representative of the World Jewish Congress at the United Nations, in a statement before a Committee of the United Nations Economic and Social Council at Lake Success. Earlier in the session, the WJC submitted a formal memorandum requesting a reconsideration by the United Nations of the situation of the Jews in the countries neighboring on Israel.

The problem was first raised by the World Jewish Congress at the United Nations two years ago. In March 1948 the Economic and Social Council and its Non-Governmental Organizations Committee submit recommendations for action. On February 14, 1949, almost exactly a year ago, the Economic and Social Council adopted a resolution taking note of the NGO Committee's report on the communications from the World Jewish Congress and expressing "the hope that governments and authorities concerned will not cease to exert whatever efforts are necessary to safeguard the fundamental human rights of individuals and groups of different faiths." The Council also resolved to transmit the resolution to the commission of the Economic Council.

Einstein Heads Board Of Merged Israeli Colleges

The merger of the Republic of Israel's two universities was accompanied by the unanimous election of Dr. Albert Einstein as president of the American joint board of directors. The union of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and the Weizmann Institute of Science was voted at a meeting in New York. The chief executives of the two universities and fifty Jewish leaders from the United States and Canada took part. The meeting had been called by the American Friends of the Hebrew University and the American Committee for the Weizmann Institute.

It was announced also that delegates to the merger conference had pledged $1,000,000 toward a $7,500,000 fund for the combined institutions. A quota of $6,000,000 was set for the United States and Canada.

Dr. Einstein's acceptance was announced at his home at Princeton, N.J. The noted scientist said he was happy to accept the post and voiced the opinion that "these institutions of higher learning will be a strong link between Israel and America." A cablegram from Dr. Chaim Weizmann, President of Israel, to Professor Einstein also was made public.

"Your name is lending luster to our young institutions and will draw the attention of American Jewry to the vital importance of Israeli centres of learning," Dr. Weizmann said. "The Hebrew Republic is happy and grateful to know you share the conviction that our people can survive this period of trial and tribulation only by the spirit of scientific and cultural effort."

Among those who took part in the [illegible] meetings in New York at Princeton; Samuel J. Zacks, retiring president of the Zionist Organizations of Canada; Dewey D. Stone, chairman of the board of directors of the Weizmann Institute; Prof. Selig Brodetsky, head of the Hebrew University; and [illegible] national rabbinical and religious

Ben-Gurion Sharply Rebukes Rabbis Over Protest

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion sharply rebuked eleven American national rabbinical and religious organizations that had cabled him demanding immediate action to revise the policy in immigrant camps which they contended had been anti-religious. In a message of reply he said that Israel was a democratic republic and that the citizens directed its affairs.

"If you wish to exert direct influence on the path taken by the State of Israel and strengthen a particular movement in our midst, the best means would be to join us and settle in Israel," he added.

The protest of the American rabbis was connected with charges that officials of immigrant camps coerced and threatened Orthodox immigrants to enroll their children in socialist schools. Mr. Ben-Gurion told the rabbis that the Government was unaware of the sources of these charges, reports the New York Times.

"Most of all I am amazed by the singular threats with which you approach the Government of Israel," he went on. "The State of Israel is a democratic republic founded on liberty, freedom of conscience and freedom of belief, and all her affairs are directed by the decision of a majority of her citizens according to their best knowledge.

"You may be assured that we shall do nothing, under the pressure of these threats, that is not justified or necessary on their own merits."

Rabbi Morris J. Rothman, executive secretary of the United Religious Bloc of America, said that his group had sent a cable to Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-[illegible]

IS FIRST JEW APPOINTED TO CANADIAN HIGH COURT

—Adolphe

Harry Batshaw, K.C., of Montreal, has the distinction of being the first Jew to be appointed to a high court in Canada. The Department of Justice in Ottawa announced that Mr. Batshaw was named a judge of the Superior Court of Quebec for the district of Montreal.

Mr. Batshaw began his law practice in 1925 with Philip Meyerovitch, K.C. At the time of his appointment he was associated with the firm of Meyerovitch, Batshaw and Levy. He was made a King's Counsel in 1940.

In recent years he had been designated by the Minister of Justice to act in a number of important legal cases as special attorney for the Department of National Revenue, National Harbors Board and the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

Mr. Batshaw was born in Mohilev, Russia, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Batshaw, now of 5829 Hutchison Street, Montreal, and was brought to Montreal at the age of three years.

Educated in Montreal schools, Mr. Batshaw graduated in law from McGill University in 1924 when he was awarded the Elizabeth Torrance Gold Medal for highest standing in the law graduating class, the MacDonald Travelling Scholarship for study abroad and the Montreal Bar Prize for commercial law. He did post-graduate work at the University of Grenoble and the Sorbonne in Paris, France.

Mr. Batshaw, who is bilingual, has contributed articles to Canadian periodicals in both English and French. A leader in Zionist organizations, he is also a member of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs and of the United Nations Association.

The announcement of the appointment of Mr. Batshaw as judge of the Superior Court came as a complete surprise to judges and lawyers in Criminal Court. Judge Almond said of it: "I am pleased to have this opportunity to express my congratulations to Mr. Batshaw on his appointment. I have known him as a lawyer possessing unusual academic ability and knowledge of the law. I am sure that he is very capable of handling his duties of the Bench in Superior Court with all the necessary finesse that exists in Canadian courts."

Mr. Batshaw is married to Anne Torchis Batshaw, Doctor of Medicine, a graduate of McGill University. They have two children, Miss Zipporah Torchis Batshaw, aged nineteen, who is in her third year at McGill University, and after graduation plans to study at the Hebrew University in Israel; and Lewis David, aged fifteen, a third year student at Westmount High School. Their home is at 4536 Montrose Avenue, Montreal.

MARRIAGES

KASSIE-WERSHOF

Dr. and Mrs. E. Wershof, of Edmonton, Alta., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Naomi Wershof, to Humphrey Kassie, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Kassie, Sherbrooke Street West, Montreal, which took place on Tuesday, February 7, at four o'clock, in the chapel of Shaar Hashomayim Synagogue. The bridal couple are spending their wedding trip in Miami Beach, Florida, and will take up residence at 4675 Kingston Avenue.

SHUSTERMAN-THALBLUM

The marriage of Norma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thalblum, 835 Jefferson Avenue, Miami Beach, Florida, to Nathan Shusterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Shusterman, 4132 City Hall Avenue, Montreal, took place at a candlelight ceremony on January 12, at eight o'clock, at the Miami Beach Jewish Center, Rabbi Irving Lehrman officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore white satin in off-the-shoulder style, its low neckline encircled with a pattern of beaded flowers. Made with long sleeves, tightly-fitted bodice, and skirt, it had a very long train. Her satin tiara was arranged with a finger-tip tulle illusion veil, and she carried a Bible, with two white orchids and stephanotis. Her only ornament was a string of antique pearls, which had belonged to her late grandmother, Mrs. N. Leb, of Europe. The bride was attended by Miss Barbara Devore, of Miami Beach, as maid of honor, in a pink nylon marquisette ballerina dress, fashioned with a V-neck, and fitted bodice, with ankle-length skirt. She carried a fan-shaped bouquet of baby lavender orchids. The bridesmaids were Miss Arlene Sisselman; in a champagne-shaded lace dress; and Miss Mitzi Goldberg, in a light blue net dress, with blue satin panels. Their dresses were in ballerina styles; and they carried flowers in shades harmonizing with their gowns. Herbert Thalblum, brother of the bride, was the groom's best man. Ushers were Sylvain Nagler, Henry Lindenbaum, Edgar Bochner, and Jordan Kasson, all of New York. While the wedding party entered the Temple, the choir sang Hebrew melodies, including "Hallelujah" and "Baruch Abeh" to organ accompaniment; and then the Mendelssohn "Wedding March" was played as the bride and her father entered. In the wedding procession also, were: David Green, of London, England, uncle of the bride; Mrs. S. Schwisberg, grandmother of the groom; and Samuel E. Schwisberg, K.C., his uncle, both of Montreal; and Mrs. Regina Kaiser, of Evansville, Indiana, cousin the bride. At the reception at the Temple, immediately following the ceremony, three hundred and fifty guests were present. Dinner was served after that to members of the family and guests from out of town. The U-shaped table was decorated with tall cut, foliage, and arrangements of pink and white carnations, and ferns. Around the walls, large cornucopias were placed, filled with flowers and foliage; and on the elevated stage, where an orchestra played, there were large potted plants, and baskets of flowers. The dinner music consisted of Hebrew melodies, with Israeli, Jewish, and English songs; and there was music for Palestinian horas, and ballroom dancing. Receiving, Mrs. Aronowitz, mother of the bride, wore a gown of absinthe-green satin, full-length, with a short train. Cut with a deep V-neckline, it had an Elizabethan-type collar; and from the low waistline and over the pencil-slim skirt, there was an over-skirt from hip to hip, dipping in a back train; and the dolman sleeves tightened from the elbow down in points over the wrists. She had a tiny satin hat to match her dress, with matching feathers arranged at each side; also matching gloves and shoes, and a corsage of bronze-shaded orchids. Mrs. Levine, mother of the groom, wore a bronze-shaded silk taffeta gown, having a long, narrow, square neckline, with winged collar; short sleeves, and long bodice. The floor-length slim skirt had a hip-length side-puffed peplum, from under which the long train fell in soft folds. She had a small bronze-shaded tulle hat, with side arrangement of [illegible]rant-green and bronze-shaded flowers; long, bronze-shaded gloves, and matching shoes, with a corsage of green orchids. Mrs. Schwisberg, grandmother of the groom, wore a gown of royal-blue silk faille designed with a low, square cut neckline; and she had a matching velvet turban, velvet gloves and shoes; with a corsage of white gardenias. Dr. and Mrs. Levine left to motor across the country, from New York, to Berkeley, California, where they will reside. Dr. Levine is in the research department of the University of California at Berkeley, working for the United States Navy. For travelling, the bride wore a softly-tailored suit of maroon wool, with matching bag, gloves and shoes, and felt hat and blouse of ice-blue, also a sheared beaver coat, with a corsage of ice-blue orchids. Misses Rose and Ethel Schwisberg, Cyril Schwisberg, Mrs. S. H. Levine, Mrs. S. Kadish, Abe Kadish, Misses Sophie and Sarah Greenblatt, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Levine, Miss Bernice Levine, all of Montreal; and Mrs. I. Levey, of Carleton Place, Ontario, were present at the wedding.

LAZAROVITZ-MYERS

The marriage of Helen, twin daughter of Mrs. Samuel Myers, 220 Bernard Avenue West, and the late Samuel Myers, to Max Bernard Lazarovitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Lazarovitz, 6295 de Vimy Avenue, took place at the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue, on February 5, at half-past one o'clock. Dr. Solomon Frank, Rabbi, officiated, assisted by Rabbi I. Teicher. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Harry S. Myers. She wore a white slipper-satin and lace gown cut with a decollate neckline, and long, wrist-pointed sleeves, it had a tightly-fitted bodice and full skirt, with a lace underskirt, and train. The bride had a scalloped lace Juliet cap, and finger-tip-length veil of tulle illusion, and carried a prayer-book, covered with a purple orchid, and white satin streamers and baby's breath. Miss Miriam Myers, twin sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing an ice-blue brocaded satin gown, with tightly-fitted, decollette bodice, and long, full skirt. She had a French-blue, velvet bonnet-shaped headdress, with blue tulle illusion, in stole-effect, draped from the headdress, blue velvet gloves, and a bouquet of deep pink carnations. Miss Ethel Lazarovitz, sister of the groom, of Northampton, Mass., was bridesmaid, in a pale green net ballerina gown, with a taffeta bodice. She had a matching tulle bonnet, gold-shaded ballerina shoes, and green net gloves, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. Michael Lazarovitz, brother of the groom, 3180 Van Horne Avenue, was best man. The synagogue was decorated with standards of pink and white snapdragons along the altar; and ferns entwined with snapdragons adorned the canopy. For the reception, pink and white snapdragons, with palms were used to decorate. Receiving, Mrs. Myers, mother of the bride, wore a royal-blue tissue-faille gown, which was ankle-length, designed with scooped-out neckline, and draped skirt. She had a hat of royal-blue tulle, with dove-grey flower petals; grey shoes and gloves, and American Beauty roses pinned to her beaded bag. Mrs. Lazarovitz, mother of the groom, wore an ankle-length gown of pearl-grey, with a lace bodice, and crepe skirt. Her hat was of shaded pink and grey flower petals, and she had grey shoes and grey lace gloves, and American Beauty roses pinned to her handbag. The bride and groom flew to New York for their wedding trip, and then proceeded to Bermuda for a two-week stay. For travelling, the bride wore a beige gabardine dressmaker suit, with a beige camel-hair coat, green suede gloves, green lizard shoes and bag, beige straw cloche, with red and green trimming; and a corsage of orchids. They will live on Goyer Road. Mrs. Nathan Solomon, of Youngstown, Ohio, an aunt of the bride, was present.

Woman Is Concertmaster Over Noted Players

As the strains of a symphony filled the great hall of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, the string section of the seventy-six-piece Oldtimers Orchestra took its cues from a tiny, gray-haired woman in the post of concertmaster.

Only infrequently did Conductor Friedar Weissman turn to the string section—and then to nod approval. Behind this rehearsal is the story of that woman concertmaster, Mrs. Elfrieda Mestechkin, 58 years old, and once a prize pupil of the late famed violin teacher, Leopold Auer.

"We can boast of many distinctions in this orchestra," Conductor Weissman remarked. He emphasized that the average age of his personnel was sixty and that each member had at one time or another played in first-desk posts with the world's outstanding symphonic organizations.

He named them off, remarking that because of their musicianship they were in frequent demand. In a matter-of-fact way he added: "You might be interested to know that we have eleven ex-concert masters in our string section."

Of course, he pointed with especial pride, to his concentmaster, Mrs. Mestechkin.

"She is a remarkable musician," he said, "sensitive, of sound experience and the possessor of a beautiful violin tone. But most important is her musicianship, her ability to anticipate the conductor's next wish."

It was almost timidly that Mrs. Mestechkin consented to talk. Alongside was a gray-haired musician holding a violin. It was her husband, Jacob, also a prize pupil of Auer, and who sits directly back of his wife in the string section. When they are not filling other engagements the Mestechkins, who first met as students at the old Petrograd Conservatory of Music, are teachers of violin.

After their graduation both embarked on concert careers, playing mainly in the Orient, and then with leading orchestras everywhere. They came to America thirty years ago and Mrs. Mestechkin has played in concerts mainly with leading chamber music orchestras and on the radio.

Mr. Mestechkin remarked: "She is a splendid musician," and his wife beamed.

"Do you know," she said, "he is always critical and this is the first time he has praised me to my face. I know he says lovely things about my playing, but never to me."

Mr. Mestechkin hurried back to his chair and the others made their way to their places. There was Samuel Wolkow, violinist, who had played under Gustav Mahler and Mengelberg and in the Metropolitan Opera orchestra and who, incidentally, has also served as the concertmaster of the Oldtimers Orchestra. Mr. Wolkow filled in another engagement several months ago and it was in his absence that Mrs. Mestechkin was appointed. The Oldtimers Orchestra was organized last spring and sponsored by Local 802 of the Associated Musicians of Greater New York.

Louis J. Gottlieb, fingerprint expert of the Bronx Magistrates Court, died of a heart ailment in his home at 1740 Grand Concourse, the Bronx, New York. His age was 67. Mr. Gottlieb prided himself on his long record of fingerprint identification without error. In 1938 his record was challenged by Thomas Costlow, a homeless man arrested on a vagrancy charge, who denied that he was the Thomas Costlow who had received a suspended sentence the previous year for soliciting alms.

Costlow protested in the Bronx Magistrates Court that he was not arrested then and could prove it. "I'll take an oath that they're the same prints," Mr. Gottlieb said. "On Feb. 1, I will have been in the job twenty-five years and I never made a mistake yet."

Costlow then admitted he had made a mistake. He said he had misunderstood Mr. Gottlieb and thought the expert had said he had been arrested in 1938. Mr. Gottlieb said that only three times before had prisoners attempted to untrack his perfect record by denying their identity and that in each case the prisoner had later admitted the correctness of the identification.

In 1946 Mr. Gottlieb received a diamond-mounted badge from his associates in recognition of his completion of twenty-five years of service with the bureau. He was one of the six fingerprint experts originally appointed to the Magistrates Court system in 1913. During his service in the Bronx, he had become a popular figure with hundreds of lawyers, judges and court attendants. Born in New York, he was raised on the lower East Side, attended public schools and studied law two years in City College.

Sun Life of Canada Increases Dividends to Policyholders

1949 was a good year for Sun Life. Total benefits paid last year $114 million. Company largest investor in Canadian homes under National Housing Act.

With $18 million — a substantial increase over 1949 — allotted for policyholders' dividends to be paid during the current year, the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada enters "its 80th year of public service with a promising outlook for 1950. During the year just past, the total amount of life insurance which policyholders purchased from the Sun Life exceeded $372 millions, continuing the unbroken record of selling more new life insurance per annum than any other Canadian life company. Insurance in force with the Sun Life now amounts to $4,187,000,000, an all-time high. Total income of the Company in 1949 was $238,000,000.

The 79th Annual Report of the Sun Life of Canada just issued indicates that benefits paid to Sun Life policyholders and beneficiaries since the Company's first policy was issued in 1871 have now reached $2,240,000,000. Last year alone over $114,000,000 was paid out in benefits. In recent years the Company has given particular attention to providing funds for the construction of homes, and of the total assets which now amount $1,837,000,000, more than 363 millions is invested in Canadian residential mortgages.

At the Annual Meeting held at the Head Office of the Company in Montreal, the President, Arthur B. Wood, reviewed the remarkable progress of life insurance over the last 50 years. In 1900, with a population of just over 5 millions, total life insurance in force in Canada amounted to 1 billion, or about $200 per capita. Today the population has doubled and the amount of life insurance in force has risen to 15 billions, or $1,000 per capita. Canada's life insurance business has more than kept pace with this increase, today's total in force of $4,187 millions comparing with only $53 millions in force at the beginning of the century. During these 50 years, too, Sun Life policy provisions and privileges have been broadened, available options increased and many new benefits introduced. Even before 1900 the Company was the first to introduce the "unconditional" policy, following later with the popular Sun Life non-medical insurance plan. The Company also issued the first Group Pension policy written anywhere in North America, an epoch-marking event in the history of life insurance.

One of the outstanding features of Sun Life operations during 1949 was the pronounced increase in the Company's Group business. Hundreds of thousands of office, factory, and other employees in business and industry throughout Canada and the United States are today protected by the generous terms of Sun Life Group insurance and annuity plans. The Company's experience and service in this particular field is unsurpassed. Today, the importance of Group insurance is recognized by all those concerned with the encouragement and maintenance of good relations between management and labor, and the welfare and social security of the individual employee.

The Sun Life story for 1949, including the President's address delivered at the Annual Meeting, is contained in the report to Policyholders now on the press. A copy will be sent to every policyholder, while others may obtain it by application at any of the Company's offices in Canada or from any of the agents of the Company throughout the world.

Curling's first!

It was a big day for Canadian curling when East and West first met!

From Quebec City to Kincardine, Canada's pioneer curlers had gathered on the ice of Burlington Bay. It was a crisp February day in 1858 and the brothers of the broom were meeting for the country's first East-West Bonspiel.

Thirty-two rinks—or teams—shouted their encouragement round the tees. Many easterners used heavy iron "stones", the westerners had granites. Bonneted figures brushed the ice with new vigour as the scores grew closer. But when the last stone skidded to a stop, the westerners sent up a cheer. They had won by 14 points.

This year's East-West Bonspiel will be held at Vancouver, March 6th to 9th. The West are the present champions.

Today the East-West Bonspiel is one of our major sporting events. With its keen competition and team spirit it's an example of good sportsmanship. And together team spirit and sportsmanship keep our opportunities for work and play in Canada . . . unlimited.

IN MEMORIAM

ROTSTEIN: In sad and loving memory of my dear husband, Archie Rotstein, who passed away February 24, 1941.

He is gone, but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In my lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.

Sadly missed and ever to be remembered by his wife, Yetta.

MURRAY AARON WIENER: In ever loving memory of a dearly beloved son and brother, Murray Aaron Wiener, who passed away February 19, 1948.

Beautiful memories are all we have left,
Of a dearly beloved one we shall never forget.
A loving smile, a happy face,
A broken link we can never replace.
All through the years be they many or few,
Will be years of fond remembrances of you.

Sadly missed and ever remembered by his parents and brother, Gerald.

Strengthen The Moral Code

By Rabbi Norman M. Shapiro, Goel Tzedec Synagogue, Toronto

The world today seems to have split into gigantic sections. There is the rational, based on clear thought and cold fact, and the irrational based on impulse and emotion. This situation has affected the national outlook and narrowed down to the human mind. We read and hear about the "split personalities" of those who are making the news. Klaus Fuchs, a self-designated, premeditated Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, has rocked the world with his dispassionate account of giving information to the Russians. Information that is so dangerous, so frightening, that it is almost too much for the human mind to encompass. A betrayal of faith as great as that of Delilah's betrayal of Samson. It will go down in the annals of history as having the same impact today, as the "selling out" of biblical times.

And what of Alger Hiss? Despite the pros and cons of the detailed information revealed at his trial, one glaring fact still remains. He could not explain away the notes written on his own typewriter. Another betrayal of a trust, a government, and a people. What evil spirit enters the minds of the once just, and moral, and prevails upon them to "sell their souls for a mess of pottage"? In the olden days the "witches" were burned at the stake, or incantations and spells were cast upon them to exorcise the demons out of their brains. They tell us today we are far too civilized and advanced for such behaviour patterns. This is not an attempt to psychoanalyze these people. It is merely a bewildering view of a trend. A very serious trend that seems to be gaining momentum.

Judith Coplon again is another good mind, an intellectual mind, we are told, who began to destroy instead of construct, when the split occurred in her mind. What a frightening set of revelations, both to the F.B.I., and the public. What is the cause for the intensity and expansion of this world-wide schizophrenia? Are we then hurtling toward the brink of complete physical destruction, not from the A-bomb, or the H-bomb, but from a far more delicate and mysterious instrument, that of the Brain?

How do we explain to ourselves that after a holocaust to end all holocausts, after the bloodshed and the heartbreak and the rubble that was left in the wake of World War Two, how do we explain, and what view do we take in regard to Winston Churchill's mellow attitude toward Rudolph Hess? How long does a memory remain, or is this split in the human brain pigeon holing the past and cutting it off summarily from the future? Has Mr. Churchill forgotten h i s enemies? Does he truly believe that a danger is over, or is he naively "turning the other cheek" without realizing that the only logical consequence can be complete demolition? Is there no fear left that can keep a man's wits sharp, although a threat may be subdued?

All aspects of life are affected by this "universal split in personalities and character." Rudolph Bing has forgotten that Kirsten Flagstad returned to her Quisling husband during the time of the most imminent victory for the Nazis, her art apparently forgotten in her anxiety to devote her time to the political cause of the moment, and to stand by her husband, whose views were identical to those of decency, morality, and democracy. The red carpet of the Metropolitan Opera House has only quite lately rolled out for a singer whose name at one time was synonymous with that of "traitoress and betrayal." We must appreciate art for art's sake. This seems to be the attitude of Mr. Bing, whose nostrils didn't reek with the smell of Bergen-Belsen, Dachau, and Maidenek. He remembers only that Kirsten Flagstad can sing.

Once more the public is becoming lulled. It is not with a false sense of security, because the new scientific discoveries have precluded that. But the public mind has "split". The unpleasant is not forgotten, just ignored. The senses are dulled to headlines, tragedy and death. We simply refuse to fear. We close our eyes to the keloids, and the monstrosities that man's hands have wrought. We harness the elements, a project that has been strictly God's own. We approach infinity like laughing idiots, and we do not fear. The war was never over, we only stopped to breathe and regard, yet we do not fear. The human mind has become refined today as never before. The Messianic era should be close. But, instead, we still plunge ahead, and we do not fear, although the bright light of the Golden Age is becoming a little tarnished with each new discovery in the race for supremacy. We are not ignorant of consequences, yet the mind has split, and we do not allow ourselves to be unduly alarmed. We have not profited from previous mistakes, which is even worse.

Forewarned is forearmed. A cliche we know, yet choose to disregard because there is no gunfire at the moment, no dread sound of the explosion, no bloodcurdling cry of the wounded. What is our course to be, what our policy. Alert? Wary? Suspicious? We must attempt to bridge this gap in the human mind, this separation, so that we think in logical wholes, and approach conclusions with vigour, responsibility, and courage. We must be able to cope with these people who are entrusted with our lives, and who throw us blindly to the unknown. Their disease is deadly and contagious. It can happen to us!

Let us take the ounce of prevention and perhaps the world will not need the pound of cure. Is this a job for psychiatrists or for the individual? Psychiatrists cannot worry for us and solve our problems to our own liking. There are not enough of them for all of the patients. This new phase in the growth of the world-child is as deadly as cancer or heart disease or any one of the numerous afflictions that we have concentrated drives for. Why not a drive for world mental stability. Wipe out the "split mind". Don't forget a memory. Heed warnings. Breed peace. Strengthen your moral code. Seek God!

50,000 while eight new towns of 15,000 to 30,000 persons are planned for the same regions.

The agricultural hinterland of the towns to be developed in Galilee and the Negeb will be irrigated by water from the rivers and springs of Eastern Galilee and the coastal plain, in accordance with plans drawn by James B. Hayes, an American engineer. The corridor linking Jerusalem with the coastal plain also is expected to be developed agriculturally.

The Government will create a development authority to direct light industries from the principal centres to smaller towns and to carry out surveys of mineral resources, particularly in the Dead Sea area, about which little is known.

of Jews who fled Germany and central and eastern Europe in the immediate post-war period. They do not show the signs of torture, as did victims of the Nazi regime. Primarily they are Zionists, who have made up their minds to go to Israel.

With the Iraqi economy dislocated at present and unemployment rather extensive, the Jews, suspected in general of Zionism, have a hard time finding employment and have scant chances of advancement in the present circumstances, unless they are employed in a Jewish firm. Jewish business men, however, have to a marked degree cut down their investments and reduced their commercial activity because of uncertainty as to their future status.

Active Zionist agitation among Jews living in Iraq, and participation in the activities of any organization that aids Jews going to Israel, are treated by the Iraqi state as crimes. Iraq is still in a formal state of war with Israel. Such activities are interpreted as giving aid and encouragement to the enemy. This accounts for the arrests last autumn of members of of a group associated with a secondary school which, the Iraqi authorities contend, was a centre of Zionist propaganda and housed an organization for aiding young Jews to go to Israel.

Many Iraq Jews, according to foreign sources that maintain regular contact with them, are alternately optimistic and pessimistic about their future status. Men who are determined to leave one day turn up within a week convinced that things will work out and that perhaps they had better stay.

organizations in the United States that the bloc represents.

The bloc's cable said the first message "never was meant as a threat" but as "an indication of deep concern of religious Jewry." The latest message contained another plea "for the amelioration of the condition of religious discrimination in the immigrant centres."

Nations for the moral influence which it has exercised through the Economic and Social Council. But this cannot blind us to the fact that great and historic communities elsewhere in the Middle East live under the daily pressure and terror of administrative hostilities. Our information is based not only on the accounts of Jews who have escaped, but on the reports of objective non-Jewish observers whose business has taken them through these countries.

"In these circumstances we feel compelled to ask for a reconsideration of the situation by the Economic and Social Council, which is charged with the responsibility of promoting a respect for human rights. We ask for reiteration of the appeal."

The Committee, which consists of representatives of India, the United States, the United Kingdom, France and China, has taken the plea under advisement and will make a report to the Economic and Social Council.

WAS KNOWN

mann, president of Israel; United States Senator Herbert H. Lehman, Dr. Abba Hillel Silver and the late Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis.

As part of his association with Justice Brandeis, Mr. Matz was a sponsor and large contributor to Brandeis University. His other benefactions for aid to education, in many cases through scholarships, included gifts to Harvard, Vassar, New York University, Mount Holyoke, Hebrew University, Yeshiva University and Dropsie College.

In the nineteen twenties he was one of a group that pledged itself to the economic development of Palestine and purchased a large tract of land there to be developed by Jewish colonists. The company operating the project was called Get Chaim, in honor of Dr. Weizmann. Mr. Matz made many journeys to the near East, and built up a large commercial business in which he was joined by his sons, the publication now being in the realization of his dreams for the establishment of the Jewish state.

His interest in Hebrew scholarship was expressed in 1925 by the establishment of the Israel Matz Foundation to aid Hebrew writers and scholars in the United States and other nations. He subsequently contributed $400,000 for this purpose. In 1930, he established the Matz Foundation for philanthropical purposes and educational aid. His subsequent contributions to this organization were estimated at $600,000.

Mr. Matz was the author of many articles and pamphlets bearing on this phase of his interests. He was the publisher of Hatoran, a Hebrew periodical, and founding patron and honorary chairman of Bitzaron, a Hebrew monthly. He was also founder of the Hebrew Literary Society. As part of his effort to make Hebrew a living tongue, instead of a language devoted largely to ritual and prayer, Mr. Matz also sponsored the work of the late Prof. Eliezar ben Jehudah in preparing the Dictionary of Modern Hebrew. For many years he also had been active in groups devoted to the promotion of world peace.

Mr. Matz was active in the American Academy for Jewish Research, Association for the United Nations, American Jewish Committee, American Red Cross, American Red Mogen David, Boy Scouts of America, Bronx Hospital, Brooklyn Kindergarten Society, Camp Massad, The Churchman, Council Against Intolerance in America, Federation of Jewish Charities, Hadassah, Free Loan Society, Hebrew Literary Foundation, Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society, Hillel Foundation, Jewish Education Committee, Jewish Institute of Religion, Jewish Teachers Seminary, Menorah Association, National Conference of Christians and Jews, Paul Kimball Hospital, Town Hall and United Jewish Appeal.

Mr. Matz is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Bernard A. Goodman and Mrs. Irving A. Edelman; three grandchildren, and two brothers, Nathan and Jacob Matz, of Tel Aviv. His wife, Mrs. Gussie Pitt Matz, died in 1948, and their only son, Sidney Matz, died in 1948.

A funeral service was held at the Park West Memorial Chapel, 115 West Seventy-ninth Street. Among the honorary pallbearers were Dr. Chaim Weizmann, President of Israel; Dr. Albert Einstein; Senator Herbert H. Lehman, Democrat, of New York; and Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver. Burial was at the Beth Olem Cemetery, Cypress Hills, Queens.

In the office of Israeli President Chaim Weizmann in Hakiryah, a special volume of the Jewish National Fund Golden Book was presented to him containing 2,084 inscriptions from Jews in Israel and twenty-two other countries. Entries in the Golden Book are made on special occasions, honoring the name of President Weizmann, and the first inscription dates from the time of President Weizmann's 70th birthday when this special campaign began. It took five years to complete this volume, which is leather-covered, framed with gold and executed by the Jewish artist, David. The volume also contains Biblical quotations and dedications to the President in Hebrew, English, French, Latin, and Yiddish. The bulk of the proceeds from this campaign (each inscription is based upon a contribution of $200) has been allocated for housing quarters at the Weizmann Institute, at the President's request.
